How Six Month Wellness Exams Can Keep Your Best Friend Happy and Healthy.

Pets age up to seven times faster than people. By age two, most pets have already reached adulthood. At age four, many are entering middle age. And by age seven, many dogs, particularly large breeds, are considered “senior”. What does this mean for your pet? First, because dogs and cats age more rapidly, dramatic health changes can occur in a very short amount of time. Second, as they age, pets can experience the same aches, pains and other health problems associated with aging in humans. Older dogs and cats are at higher risk of diabetes, arthritis, heart disease, kidney disease, cancer and other serious conditions. Many of these health problems are treatable if diagnosed in time, but unfortunately, many pets don’t see the veterinarian as often as they should. Taking your dog or cat to a veterinarian once a year compares to a person seeing a doctor or dentist just once every seven years! You wouldn’t wait seven years to see your doctor for a checkup, would you? So why wait a whole year to have your pet examined by a veterinarian? Our Wellness Plan will provide the twice a year examination your pet needs.

Dental Disease in Dogs and Cats

Some potentially serious health problems can start with a minor tooth or gum problem. Bacteria that grows on neglected and irritated gums can be carried by the bloodstream to your pet's vital organs and cause major damage (or cause them to fail). Since most pets are not big complainers, we really have to pay attention to spot these little irritations or infections (as early as 12 months of age). A regular routine of keeping the mouth clean and healthy at all times is the best way to head off problems before they start.

With our Gold or Platinum Wellness Plans, your pet's dental problems can be diagnosed and treated with a plan that fits your budget.
